OUR CYCLORAMA.

One of the Most Conspicuous Exhibits at Sunset City.

The press were complimented with an invitation to the great cyclorama of the crater of Kilauea, upon a recent afternoon, accompanied with refreshments both of a solidified and liquid character. Your correspondent was there, especially as he had seen the original, and was desirous of seeing what, if any, was the similarity between them. The building is one of the most conspicuous among the concessions at Palm City—an immense circular pavilion, somewhat similar to those used for the exhibition of battle scenes, that were so popular a few years ago in most of the large cities. You enter the building between walls of imitation lava, and pass on and up to an imaginary point of view overlooking the crater. The realism of the scene is truly remarkable. There is the literal lake of fire, the fissures in the crust of lava, through which fire and smoke are ascending, and all the awful surroundings of the amazing spectacle. In the distance and on the rim of the crater is the Volcano House. It is the same exhibition, although much improved, that was given at Chicago. It should be seen by every visitor at the Fair. It is truly artistic and wonderfully real.

We shall never forget our thirty miles of horseback ride over the lava hummocks from Hilo to the crater, nor the banquet of wild hog that awaited us at the Volcano House. These are memories of the past. Here is a faithful representation of the amazing spectacle for only two bits, minus the horseback ride and the wild hog. Surrounding the Cyclorama is a native village, with its grass huts—all very realistic, and all worth to one who has never visited the islands many times the moderate admission fee.—J. J. O. in San Jose Mercury, Jan. 27.

Cured of Scrofula

The People will have Hood's

Mr. Dorman's Experience

"My boy, now 9 years old, had Scrofula in one eye from the time he was a baby; discharging all the time. Of late we have been giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it has done all that medicine can do. The Scrofula has disappeared, and his eye is healed up and well."

Hood's Cures

fully believe Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine in the market. I keep a general store, and it is not a trick to sell Hood's Sarsaparilla for the people will have it. I sell more of Hood's Sarsaparilla than all other medicines together and the store would not be complete without it. My wife has also been entirely cured of Scrofula by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I am heartily thankful for what it has done for us." JOHN DORMAN, Shy Beaver, Pa.
